DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 5, the recitation of "the latching unit" in lines 1-2 is indefinite because it is unclear as to if this latching unit refers to the latching unit recited in line 18 of claim 1 or of the latching unit (line 3 of claim 2) of the tracking/latching unit. Clarification is required.

In claim 6, the recitation "to connect or disconnect between the latching unit in response to the clock signal" is indefinite because it is unclear what is being connected or disconnected from the latching unit in response to the clock signal. Clarification is required.

In claim 7, the recitation of "the latch means" in line 6 lacks proper antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Michalski (US2004/0027265). Figure 1 of Michalski shows a comparator comprising a differential input unit (25) inputting two analog input signals (Sin), a tracking/latching unit (30, 50-55), performing a tracking and latching operation through receiving a differential output of the differential input unit from an ordinary sub input terminal (collectors of transistors 31, 32), and having different current pass from each of the ordinary /sub input terminal of the tracking/latching unit itself in order to make the tracking/latching unit itself operated as a load of the differential input unit for a tracking operation in the track mode, a latching unit (38) for latching an output of the tracking/latching unit as called for in claim 1.

Regarding claim 6, the switching unit is seen as the switch 42 of Michalski.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1 and 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by applicant's cited prior art figure 2. Figure 2 of applicant's cited prior art shows a comparator comprising a differential input unit (10) inputting two analog input signals (Vin1, Vin2), a tracking/latching unit (MN3, MN4, MN5), performing a tracking and latching operation through receiving a differential output of the differential input unit from an ordinary sub input terminal (drains of transistors MN4, MN5), and having different current pass from each of the ordinary /sub input terminal of the tracking/latching unit itself in order to make the tracking/latching unit itself operated as a load (MN3 is a load and further shown in figure 3) of the differential input unit for a tracking operation in the track mode, a latching unit (11) for latching an output of the tracking/latching unit as called for in claim 1.

Regarding claims 6 and 7, the switching unit is seen as the transistors MN1 and MN2.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 2-4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
7. Claim 5 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

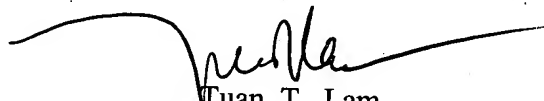

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. In this regard, applicant's cited prior art has been carefully considered.
